PENNELL SONG

Pennell, dear old Pennell,
To us you seem so dear.
What we are hereafter
We owe our school days here.
Let days seem bright or dreary,
Let things go right or wrong,
We'll sing with cheerful hearts
The words of this old song.

CHORUS

We have come here day by day
As the hours pass away.
Every year here brings us nearer
To the time when we shall part,
Care and sadness in our hearts
We will think of the days spent here.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF . . . SOPHOMORES

Kenneth Hayes didn't have any girls to flirt with.
Burchard Dunn didn't have a car.
Anne Dingwell didn't like Buzzy.
Joan Megquire couldn't giggle.
Judith Butler decided whom she likes.
Nancy Reed couldn't play the sax.
Richard Barter didn't like the girls.

What Would Happen If

Frederick Adler didn't have a portable radio?
Richard Barter ever fought with his brother at school?

Kenneth Hayes couldn't draw?
Philip Humphrey couldn't do General Science?
Ann Libby didn't have a flame in the Junior Class?
Patricia Libby didn't have Judy Butler?
Robert Libby spent a whole week at school?
Joan Megquire wasn't always excited about something?
Carl Nickerson didn't talk to the girls?
Ruel Ordway wasn't elected class president?
Nancy Reed didn't live over the store?
Philip Richardson didn't fight with his sister?
Wayne Sherwood liked the girls?
William White wasn't such a tough little guy?
What would happen if the Freshman Class stayed after school?

FRESHMAN

SENIOR CLASS REPORTS

Although the Freshman class has not sponsored many activities, we feel we have done enough for the first year.

The Freshman class has contributed its share of basketball players this winter and we hope some will be chosen for baseball. Kenneth Hayes and Burchard Dunn were on the varsity basketball team, and Stearns Caswell and Richard Barter were on the junior varsity. Judith Butler and Patricia Libby played for the girls' basketball team.

The boys who went out for fall baseball were: Kenneth Hayes, Robert Gibbs, Stearns Caswell, and Ruel Ordway.

The cheerleaders from the Freshman class were: Judith Butler and Ruel Ordway.

The class officers were: President, Ruel Ordway, Vice President, Wayne Sherwood, Secretary, Robert Libby, Treasurer, Judith Butler.

The members of the Freshman class were very co-operative in paying their dues. The class consists of twenty-nine pupils, seventeen boys and twelve girls.

Although the Freshman class had the lowest average in rank during the first term, we climbed to the highest during the third and fourth terms.

RUEL ORDWAY, '53.

STEARNS CASWELL, '53.

Our second year at Pennell now nearly completed, we find it time to "take stock" and look back over our achievements.

At the beginning of the fall term all our old classmates were back, twenty-two students; and the following officers were elected, for the year: Ruel Ordway, President; Richard Barter, Vice-President and Student Council Member; Ann Dingwell, Secretary; Phillip Richardson, Treasurer, and Patty Libby, Student Council Member.

Early this year, Phillip Richardson moved to Texas, and we elected Burchard Dunn to take over the duties of Treasurer. Mary and Josephine Lockard joined us after the middle of the year.

So far, we have sponsored two dances, and three one-act plays. We did well on the dances and the plays were not only a great success, but a lot of fun as well.

Representing our class in basketball were: Patty Libby, Joanne Foster, Kenneth Hayes, Burchard Dunn, Stearns Caswell, and Richard Barter. On the cheering squad were: Judith Butler and Ann Dingwell. Representatives on the swimming team: Patty Libby, Richard Barter, and Stearns Caswell.

This year has been quite successful, and we're hoping the next will be even better.

Ann Dingwell, '53

We started the year with twenty-four students. Josephine Lockard and Lois Henry left and Robert Gibbs moved away.

Our class officers are the following:

President	Ruel Ordway
Vice-President	Richard Barter
Secretary	Nancy Reed
Treasurer	Kenneth Hayes

The Juniors who participated in basketball are: Kenneth Hayes, Richard Barter, Burchard Dunn, and Patty Libby. In baseball: Kenneth Hayes, Richard Barter, Burchard Dunn, Stearns Caswell and Ruel Ordway. We had one cheerleader, Patty Libby.

The annual Junior Prom was held in November, it went off very nicely. We have held quite a few dances and put on three one-act plays. We also took part in the Minstrel Show with the Seniors. Everything was quite successful.

The Junior Class has really had a very eventful year and we hope our senior year will be equally successful.

VALUE OF ATHLETICS

Some people believe that too much stress is placed on athletics. They believe that it is all right to have sports, but that when athletics are put over school subjects it is time to stop. One of the reasons is that in many of our present colleges money is given athletes for playing.

Sports are a source of income for many of our high schools. The receipts are used to buy sporting equipment in most high schools and colleges.

Some people believe athletics develop sound, clean minds and a will to strive for success, and that athletes make better citizens. To be sure, athletics develop a rugged, competitive spirit, but is this sometimes destroyed by too much glory? How much better citizen will the plain non-sportsminded fellow make than the athlete?

To me athletics are worthwhile and important to a democratic nation. It is one thing in which everyone has an equal chance, and whether a man is dark or white, it does not mean he is a better athlete.

KENNETH HAYES, '53.

STARTING OFF

It's a cold frosty morning,
And the fire feels so good;
The coffee's gently perking,
While the stove is stoked with wood.

It's mighty hard to start,
But we drag ourselves away
From the heat of the kitchen
As we start our hunting day.

It's five o'clock already,
With night's darkness hardly gone,
But there's light enough to see by,
And the deer are up at dawn.

For a second all are wishing
That they might be home in bed;
But the moment quickly passes,
And cheer comes in its stead.

We are ready for the day,
And here comes the sun;
The guns are loaded quickly
And hunting has begun.

THE TREE

The tree, Nature's gift, so high,
Towers upward to the sky;
Its age depends upon its rings,
Which are peculiar looking things.

Its roots are long and round,
With no end to them beneath the ground;
These roots are its strength and, in time,
Make it stand erect in storm or shine.

Its limbs stretch out from every side,
And on most trees are large and wide;
In evergreens there is no end,
And, when winter comes, snow makes them bend.

The leaves are its source of food,
Though they're of many shapes and crude;
They protect the birds from summer's wind and rain,
And hide the squirrel from the hunter's brain.

The tree's a wondrous thing on our great earth;
It was here before our forefather's birth;
And on a cold and windy night
It burns in the fireplace, warm and bright.
Ruel Ordway, '51

CYCLE OF DREAMS

Did you ever, at summer's end,
Sleep beneath the maples tall,
Dream and think of all the things
That go along with the coming of fall?

Of children hurrying off to school
To study, and learn their lessons well.
Of the flocks of birds now flying South
To remain there for a tropic spell?

Half dreaming, as you look around,
You rest your eyes upon the trees
And on the leaves of gold and brown
That flutter in the autumn breeze.

But better stop your dreaming now.
To think of still another thing:
Of winter that will come and go
And the coming of the spring.

And as you go to school each day
Wishing that spring were here,
Take each season as it comes
For together they form a year.

Nancy Reed, '53

THE STAG

From the twilight of the rushes
Forth into the flush of sunset,
He moves with bending grace.

Head erect, with crown uplifted,
Nostrils tense, his eyes depict
Attention measured in his stately pace.

Minutes seem to me like hours—
While I, enveloped by the silence,
Fear a breath will blunder such a sight.

A gentle breeze now stirs the vines—
And the stag aware now of my presence
Disappears into the vaning light.

Girls Softball Team Report

This year we had a new softball coach, Mrs. Dews. She had a hard job coaching us, but we all enjoy having her as our coach. The team has a much larger membership than years gone by, and has done very well in playing ball. It is our hope that Mrs. Dews will keep on coaching the girls sports in the years to come.

PENNELL INSTITUTE

Henry Pennell endowed the money for Pennell Institute. He gave $25,000 for the building to be built.

Pennell Institute was erected in 1876. It was opened in 1886.

The town had no say of how the school could be run until a few years ago. It was under the say of three trustees. They had the say of who could be teachers and when they would be fired.

The laboratory, which is now the Home Economics Building, was erected in 1899. Upstairs was the chemistry room. Downstairs was the physics room.

The two main drinking fountains were given by H. L. Foran, and the alumni of Pennell Institute.

The Newbegin Gymnasium was erected in 1938. Part of the money was given by George Newbegin and the rest with the help of a government grant.

The Manual Arts Building was erected in 1950. It was opened in early 1951.

There is no record of how many pupils were first enrolled in Pennell Institute.

There was one large room upstairs. They had a stage and they held all the plays and assembly meetings there.

Up stairs was the Junior home room. Downstairs in the main room was the Freshmen and Senior home room. What is now the library was the Sophomore home room.

There is no record of when Henry Pennell died, but George Newbegin died in 1936.

Mr. Small is now the principal. There are six other teachers. They are Mrs. Long, Mr. Dunn, Mr. Daigle, Mrs. Dews, Mrs. Freeman, and Mr. Tobin.

Maine, the Land of Remembered Vacations

The tourest industry of Maine is very large. Over 450,000 people visit Maine each year. More than half of them spent their vacation at Maine's beautiful coast. Maine summer resort hotels have a variety of locations to suit all tastes. There are also many overnight camps and cabins. Mt. Desert Island is one famous resort.

The beauty of Maine's coast cannot be rivaled anywhere. Inland the combination of mountains and lakes presents a beautiful senic effect. Sebago Lakes, Rangely Lakes, and Belgrade Lakes are very well known.

Maine has many fine roads that provide good transportation for the many people who come to Maine to spend their vacations.

In Maine visitors can enjoy any kind of sport or entertainment. Golf courses can be found anywhere. Many summer resorts feature horseback riding. Hiking is everybody's sport. Most of our mountains have trails leading to the top for mountain climbing. There is canoeing and sailing on Maine's lakes. Every resort has yachting clubs for visiting yachtsmen. There are clean, sandy beaches for swimming. Maine's lakes and streams are well stocked with fish for vacationing sportsmen. Deep sea fishing for tuna, mackerel, cod, and haddock is very favorable. Maine has been called the Hunter's Paradise because of its great forests.

In Maine also, is the historical town of Pemaquid of which it has been said, "It has more history to the square foot than any other place in New England."

It is little wonder that people call Maine the "Land of Remembered Vacations."

Julia Currie, '56.

THE SENIOR CLASS

The Seniors began the year with twenty-two students. We found two new faces among the familiar ones, those of William Fernstrom from Portland and Viestrus Pavasars from Long Island, New York. Robert Doughty left school in the fall.

Our class officers for the year are as follows:

President-Burchard Dunn

Vice-President-Viestrus Pavasars

Secretary-Nancy Reed

Treasurer-Ann Dingwell

Student Council-Patricia Libby

We have had many activities this year such as the food sale, selling Christmas cards, and selling milk at noon. We sponsored the annual Senior Class Play, the Maypole Dance, the Cabaret, and a Ken MacKenzie Show. These, plus other functions of years past benefited our class trip to the Shenandoah Valley which we all think was worth our struggles. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dunn were our Chaperones during the trip.
